

National Concert Hall

Petal provided the perfect combination of modern design and reliable performance for this busy public building.

The fit out of the washrooms during the refurbishment of Ireland’s National Concert Hall called for products which both reflected the quality of the venue and would perform reliably over time. The design team selected the modern inline styling of Petal’s Line cubicle system which provides a level of detailing not usually found in a standard height cubicle.

The standard height Line cubicles feature hardwood edging on the 30mm thick doors creating a sense of quality and delivered great value whilst maintaining modern flush inline styling.

Petal provided the full washroom scheme including APS plus bespoke solid surface vanity units.

The Line system is available in a vast range of laminate finishes including textures, colours and wood effects.
